

EAVS incorporates the new wireless presentation and collaboration system from Vivitek.

In order to optimize meetings and school courses, EAVS went to look for a wireless presentation system, both discreet and efficient. So the new system NovoPro from Vivitek is now joining the large AV solutions of EAVS family.

For 13 years now, EAVS offers global audiovisual solutions for professionals, in different market such as: residential, corporate, broadcast, video surveillance, education, medical, digital signage, etc. In order to offer even more innovative products, EAVS is now proud to count Vivitek as a new supplier.

Who is Vivitek?

Taiwanese display and digital projection manufacturer, it offers high quality products respectful of the environment. Founded in 2010, the group's plants are labeled with the "Green Factories" label. And today, in addition of its projector's range, Vivitek offers a new presentation system: the NovoPro range.

Novopro's range:

Actually, this range is a wireless presentation and collaboration system, a modern design to make meetings and school courses more interactive. It work also with the Launcher box that plugs directly on computers.

So the NovoPro range offers two complementary products: the presentation system and the Launcher box. Thus, the system that plug directly to a screen allows people who have the Launcher box to instantly participate without having to go through the installation of a special software.

This range is adapted to operating systems such as: Windows, Mac PC and Chromebook, but also to smartphones using Android and iOS.
